The New York Herald publishes a letter of General Lee to his sister, written when he was in the hands of the enemy, and in which he expresses his regret that he cannot return to his native State. Lee did not approve of the secession. He was a Union man at the start and to the end.

Both the Herald and Times take occasion to sneer at State rights. They are jealousists.
Their diatribe comments will convince all men who understand our institutions that these editors know nothing about the system of government we have always had until the advent of the present party power.

The States made the Federal Government, and it is the duty of the Federal Government to exercise, and implicitly and explicitly reserving all other power to the States and the people.
Our Statesmen, until lately, had always approved that the States had rights that no department of the Federal Government could transgress. New party light, however, has disposed of State rights. They are only fit to be laughed at. The necessities of the Government the States made may absorb all the powers not granted, and leave the States only in history. We can see from these scribbles that the States have no rights at all that the Federal Government is bound to respect. Still New York elects a Governor and a Legislature and goes through the formality of making laws, as if the States were something real. On the present theory, we might as well have a great deal of expense. State taxes add hundreds of millions to the burdens of the people.
State courts and institutions had better be dispensed with, if the theory be true. If the States have no rights that the Federal Government can touch. We think it would be better to dispense with the complicated machinery we have had and simplify our Government.

This machinery has been constructed on the theory that the States were sovereign and independent, and that no power could interfere with them. But the States have no rights that the Federal Government can touch. We think it would be better to dispense with the complicated machinery we have had and simplify our Government.

The following information, compiled by an officer whose experience has been greater, perhaps, than that of any other during this war, will be of service, not only to members of the bar, but to all who have friends or relatives to be tried before military courts:

1. The President of the United States, whenever, in this respect, are usually insisted in the name of the Secretary of War.
2. A General Officer commanding an army.
3. A Colonel commanding a separate Department.

4. In time of war, the Commander of a Division or separate Brigade.
5. The Commander of a Post or District having no brigade organization, where the command is composed of mixed troops (infantry, cavalry, artillery, and engineers). A copy of this order must accompany the proceedings of any general court-martial convened by such brigade commander.

ACTION OF THE AUTHORITY THAT APPOINTED THE COURT ON THE RECORD OF ITS PRO-CEEDINGS.

No sentence of a General Court-Martial shall be carried into execution until after the whole proceedings shall have been laid before the officer ordering the same, or the officer commanding the troops for the time being, for his action. If the proceedings are approved by him, and he has legal authority to order the execution of the sentence, he should indorse the record with his signature and the date of his action. If he has not the legal authority to order the execution of the sentence, he should indorse the record with his signature and the date of his action, and refer the record to the proper authority for execution.

A disapproval of the proceedings by the proper authority shall not prevent the sentence from being carried into execution, but it shall be a ground for a writ of habeas corpus, and for
